IT'S THE ECONOMY...

Local MP Steve Brine says there's so much at stake this year.

This year's General Election – due in May – is the most important, and unpredictable, in a generation. In five years, Britain has moved from being on the brink to becoming the fastest growing economy in the Western World.

Steve Brine has been our Member of Parliament since 2010. He told The Winchester Post; "I have seen first-hand the work that has been done to give our country the recovery that is now producing growth, more jobs and better wages. It would be criminal to turn back now."

The MP, who ran a small business himself before being elected to Parliament, said it was not however all about Westminster.

"We said from the start this would be a Government that gets Britain open for business. Whether it's the lowest rate of corporation tax in the G20, or our Employment Allowance which has cut National Insurance for every business by up to £2,000, we made that happen.

Steve on his feet in the House of Commons

"Having a business friendly council in Winchester matters too. The overall jobless count in this area has fallen by 68% since 2010 but we want to go further. That means keeping and attracting quality employers in the area so there are well paid, professional jobs locally. At present we have a City Council that understands that."

AFFORDABLE HOUSING

We have a strong record locally.

Did you know, Winchester City Council is building new council homes for local people?

The New Homes Programme has already delivered and has plans to do even more in the future. It's a strong record says our local MP Steve Brine.

"Personally, I've cut the ribbon at The Dell in Kings Worthy, up at Barron Close in Micheldever and we've seen former Mayor Neil Baxter open the stunning Baxter Close in Itchen Abbas. It's a really impressive record and I am urging the council to go further.

"Winchester has property prices well above average and while that's good for some it's a source of frustration for many trying to get on the ladder. We've plenty of new developments, some with 'affordable' elements, but new council housing is the real affordable housing and I'm really proud it's this council delivering it."

One of the next areas set to benefit from the New Homes Programme is Stanmore where 21 homes will come to the site of the former New Queen's Head.

STILL PRIORITY NHS

Steve Brine MP Health Check Survey 2014

Steve has a strong and consistent record on our local NHS

Steve Brine made the local NHS his top priority from day one and has pledged to do the same if he's re-elected as our MP in May.

He says; "We have huge challenges locally as the new Trust seeks to design hospital services that are safe and sustainable in the long-term. I will go on working calmly and responsibly to consider any proposed changes but do think the Trust have some way to go in making the case for a reconfigured maternity service for instance. That part still troubles me greatly. We have to understand the health economy across our entire area and see how that fits together in the context of the modern NHS for the long-term benefit of the people I represent."

He adds; "The NHS is changing fast and I want our area to benefit from new investment as well as be at the forefront of a drive for better outcomes on cancer and long-term conditions for instance.

"Alongside all of this, we need to manage sustainable access to GP services, the integration of NHS and social care and parity for mental health care locally."

Last year Steve surveyed every one of his more than 70,000 constituents on the NHS and chaired two open meetings to give local people a chance to question health chiefs.

IN BRIEF

HOMELESS DEBATE IN COMMONS

Steve Brine recently raised the issues of mental health and substance abuse among young homeless people during a debate in Parliament.

He spoke beforehand to Winchester Churches Night Shelter and Trinity, and told Parliament that whatever the colour of the next government, the next 'frontier' in tackling homelessness among young people must be a national focus on services working together to address multiple needs.

BODY WORN VIDEO FOR POLICE

Police Minister Mike Penning visited Winchester with Steve Brine (his Parliamentary Private Secretary at the Home Office) for a demonstration of how the body-worn police cameras work.

By the end of this year, every frontline police officer in Hampshire will be issued with a body-worn camera as the force becomes one of the first in the country to equip all its staff.

INHERITANCE TAX PUSH FROM MP

Steve Brine continues to lead calls for the Chancellor to raise the inheritance tax threshold in his next Budget.

Mr Brine was extremely angry that the Conservative manifesto idea was jettisoned from the Coalition agreement back in 2010, and is now pushing to spare families in his constituency the 40% 'death tax' on houses which many have lived in for years.

Steve Brine has written formally to George Osborne to demand that inheritance tax should only be paid by the very wealthy, not with a threshold set at £325,000, or £650,000 for a married couple.

NEW DRUG FOR MUSCULAR DYSTROPHY FIGHT

Winchester & Chandler's Ford MP Steve Brine has joined the fight for urgent access to a new rare disease treatment.

The campaign calls on NHS England to end delays to a breakthrough treatment which will allow some boys affected by a devastating muscle-wasting condition to stay on their feet for longer.

Steve Brine MP said: "A bureaucratic internal debate is currently preventing licensing of the drug Translarna, which can give these boys precious extra time on their feet.

"NHS England urgently needs to come up with a short-term solution as families affected by Duchenne muscular dystrophy do not have a single day to spare as their sons get weaker each day."

Westminster Report

'inside the Commons'

Being elected to Parliament for the first time is quite something as you can imagine but being thrust into a new Government right away – and a coalition Government at that – is an experience I will never forget.

There have been too many highlights to mention but my first PMQ stands out, that and just the sheer enormity of the Palace of Westminster. As the recent BBC documentary showed, getting to know it is something you never manage even after 30 years!

My work on the influential Justice Select Committee was a fascinating chance to really learn the craft of a backbencher. My votes against a 3-line whip were, as I like to think, character forming.

In 2013 I joined the Government as a ministerial aide at the Department for Work and Pensions – and subsequently the Home Office – which has proved many things to me; not least that Yes Minister was spot on in almost every regard!

SECURING OUR FUTURE

Steve with members of the South Wonston Senior Citizens Club and BELOW speaking recently in the House of Commons

The Famous 5...

Since 2010, we've been working to a long-term economic plan to turn Britain around. MP Steve Brine talks about the five key areas in which the coalition government has made a difference for those of us living across Winchester & Chandler's Ford.

1 There are now a record number of people in work in our country. The overall jobless count in this area has fallen by 68% since 2010; it's down 46% among the over-50's and an impressive 79% among 18-24 year-olds. That's more people in work providing for their families or young people getting into work for the first time.

2 We've raised the personal income tax allowance to £10,000 meaning no-one working 30 hours a week on the minimum wage will pay any. If we remain in Government we'll lift it to £12,500.

3 This Government has frozen petrol duty and council tax, abolished Air Passenger Duty for under 12's and helped thousands get on the property ladder through Help to Buy.

4 We've capped benefits to reward work and if we win in May, we will raise the higher rate threshold at which people pay the 40p tax rate to £50,000. It is currently £41,900.

5 The state pension has increased by £800, we've protected key pensioners benefits as we promised and abolished the unfair annuity rule for over-75's.

All of this is possible because Britain now has the fastest growing economy in the Western World.

HOSTING THE EDITORS

Steve Brine recently hosted a group of parish magazine editors from across his constituency in the House of Commons, as they took a guided tour of the Palace of Westminster before meeting Steve for tea and biscuits.

Steve Brine said: "Every month since I was elected in 2010

I have written a column for around a dozen parish, church and community magazines.

"It's a huge task but worth it as residents read, and trust, these vital community channels. The visit to Westminster was a chance to take the tour, have a cup of tea and meet each other – and for me to say thank you."

FLOOD WORKS EXTENSION

Steve lends his shoulder to the effort in Littleton in February 2014 alongside Cllr James Byrnes

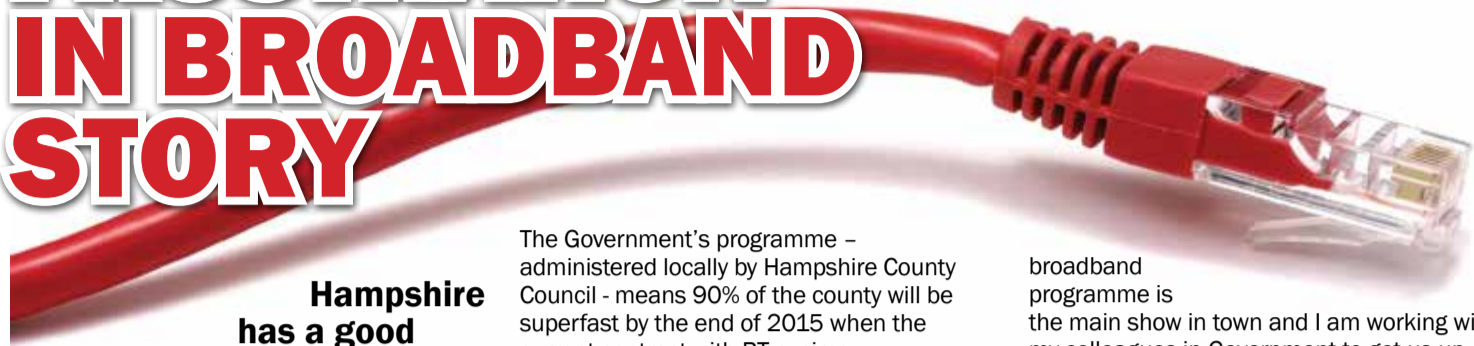

Winchester's MP has secured further good news for local people affected by last winter's flooding, as the government have now extended the deadline on those applying for financial help.

Following lobbying of the Treasury by Steve, the deadline has been extended until the end of 30th June 2015 for those affected between 1st December 2013 and 31st March 2014. This will help local authorities across England manage the allocation of the Repair and Renew Grant (RRG).

The RRG provides homeowners and businesses with up to £5,000 of grant funding to establish resilience measures to their property in order to minimise the risk or impact of any future flooding.

Steve says: "I'm really pleased our efforts have built further flexibility into the RRG scheme. Without this change, plans would not be able to go ahead in places such as Littleton because there is not enough time to do the work before the end of the financial year."

PROGRESS AND FRUSTRATION IN BROADBAND STORY

Hampshire has a good story to tell when it comes to connecting us to superfast broadband but success for the majority is leaving the rest hugely frustrated.

That is the assessment of local MP Steve Brine as he used a debate in Parliament to urge the Government to classify broadband as a vital utility alongside water and gas.

The Government's programme – administered locally by Hampshire County Council – means 90% of the county will be superfast by the end of 2015 when the current contract with BT expires.

Steve says; "The focus is now turning to the next 5% and I'm pleased we managed to secure a new £1.2m 'Innovation Fund' from Government which will be piloted here in Hampshire for some of the more remote rural communities. It will use a mixture of tailored solutions including fibre to the street cabinets, fibre connected directly to premises, and fixed wireless technology.

"The new fund is good but we shouldn't be distracted by it. Hampshire's superfast broadband programme is the main show in town and I am working with my colleagues in Government to get us up to 95% coverage well ahead of the new BT contracted period which runs until 2019.

"However, at the same time I am pressing Ministers to consider how, through the next generation of 'innovation fund' as new and better technologies become available, we can make a reality of the often repeated sound-bite that broadband is the fourth main utility."

TRANSFORMATION AT WORTHY DOWN

The redevelopment of Worthy Down, known as Project Wellesley, continues to take shape, just five years after the existence of the base was in jeopardy. The new facility will bring together the majority of logistics and personnel administration training for the Army, Royal Navy and RAF.

Steve Brine said: "It was useful to visit the site recently and receive a briefing on this project which has been warmly welcomed locally. It seems only yesterday I was lobbying the then Defence Secretary to keep Worthy Down open as part of the SDR in 2010 and I know that with such a strong military tradition here in Winchester there is great interest in what happens on this site."

HAVEN IN WESSEX

Steve Brine travelled to Titchfield near Fareham in December to check out the progress of Haven in Wessex, a new centre for women fighting breast cancer.

Steve said: "I was so pleased to be involved in getting the centre down to Wessex which brings together the work I do in this area in Parliament with something tangible for my constituents. The refurbishment is going great and we hope it will be open later this year."

STEVE SAYS NAME THE DATE FOR EU POLL

Steve Brine says name the date for the IN/OUT EU referendum he and so many of his constituents are supporting.

The Winchester MP went against a three-line whip in the House of Commons back in November 2011 to call for a national poll, and although it is now party policy, he is calling for a proposed date to be published now. He says; "If the Conservatives are re-elected in May the referendum WILL happen by 2017 after the PM's renegotiation. However, to underline this even further I want that date fixed now so we can all ink it into our diaries!"

OPEN DOORS TO CHALLENGE CHRISTIAN PERSECUTION

Local MP Steve Brine, himself an active member of Christians in Parliament, joined over 60 MPs as he attended a crucial discussion held at Westminster in January regarding the disturbing increase and breadth of persecution against Christians around the world.

The charity Open Doors urged MPs to take action, and also appealed for them to ensure that there is an effective and robust foreign policy in place to foster and protect freedom of religion. More: www.opendoorsuk.org

MESSAGE ON PITT VALE IS CLEAR

The response to a campaign against another proposed development at Pitt has been massive says Steve Brine, with a huge amount of feedback received since the last edition of this newspaper.

As readers will know, Linden Homes are currently working on submitting an outline planning application for land at Pitt Vale, a move which has angered residents, councillors such as Jan Warwick and Winchester MP Steve Brine.

The site is bordered to the south east by the A3090 and Romsey Road and the south west by Enmill Lane. It is adjacent to the entirely separate Pitt Manor development which was granted planning permission in 2012.

Steve says; "It is really helpful that so many people have written to me and the message is clear. I said at the time how angry I was at this cheeky and speculative proposal, and I needed as much backing for this position from local people as possible. You did not disappoint!"

Cllr Jan Warwick from Winchester City Council is one of those leading the fight against development at Pitt Vale alongside Steve Brine.

SCHOOL PLACES – WHERE NEXT?

Local MP Steve Brine has delivered more than £10m for new primary school places in his constituency since 2010 and is now fighting for a fairer funding settlement for local schools as part of a national campaign.

The Winchester MP recently met with the f40 group in Parliament, representing some 34 local authorities which have historically suffered from low funding.

Steve said: "The government has acknowledged this problem which is good because there is real inconsistency in funding for individual schools with similar characteristics across the country."

Earlier in this Parliament, Steve's campaign secured £10.2m for badly-needed new primary school places in Winchester. It led to the new all-through school at Westgate and the expansion of several city schools. The MP is also supporting local entrepreneur Karen Sprunt with her popular Flipp Flopps educational tool to help children learn, and understand, their times tables.

Steve says; "I met Karen while I was holding a summer tour surgery in Sainsbury's, and the deal was that if Flipp Flopps interested my daughter Emily in maths I'd help her promote what is a brilliantly simple idea. Emily loved it and the product is now really taking off nationally."

WINNALL & JUNCTION 9 IN THE SPOTLIGHT

The community in Winnall held a special 'jamboree' event in January as a new initiative seeks to explore the daily problems and possibilities faced by residents and businesses in the Winnall area.

The event took place at Winnall Community Centre, and explored issues such as traffic and parking, community buildings, housing and green spaces. There was great interest in the recently announced £200m fund to comprehensively remodel Junction 9 of the M3 which local MP Steve Brine has secured from the Government.

The MP, who attended the event with local city and county councillor Fiona Mather says; "I know that the two Councils commissioned a similar Planning Framework for Stanmore a few years back, which has already led to a series of new developments and improvements on the estate.

"The engagement at this event, from Winnall residents and its many businesses, was encouraging and it was great to be there myself to hear what constituents had to say."

KINGS WORTHY GP SERVICE RESUMES

Good news in Kings Worthy as the temporary closure of its GP surgery turned out to be... temporary.

Friarsgate Surgery, which runs the facility in Pound Road, was forced to close it just before Christmas to allow for urgent repairs to be carried out by the council. Local MP Steve Brine was contacted by concerned constituents and made urgent inquiries with the Practice, NHS England and with Winchester City Council to get the facts and reassure residents. The surgery re-opened at the end of February.

COUNCIL TAX & SUNDAY PARKING

Winchester City Council has committed to keeping council tax frozen, as well as maintaining the popular cancellation of Sunday car parking charges.

WCC's Cllr Stephen Godfrey told The Winchester Post; "This Conservative-led council is pro-business and sticks up for hard-working taxpayers. We wanted to take up the Government's offer to freeze council tax again for another year and it's a no-brainer to retain the free Sunday parking which greatly helps shoppers and traders alike coming into the city."

AT LAST! A STONEY LANE CROSSING

A new pedestrian crossing near the Stoney Lane shops is now (finally) under construction.

MP Steve Brine said; "This area of Winchester has changed out of all recognition in recent years but safety for pedestrians hasn't kept pace. This crossing is an important part of that"

Cllr Helen Osborne adds: "It's been a long time coming as we were discussing this new crossing when Waitrose got permission many years ago. The disruption has been bad while the work took place, and there have been differing views as to its exact location, but it's good the crossing is now in place and making Stoney Lane safer for us all".

MP SEES RESURFACING WORK FIRST HAND

A team from the Highways Agency invited MP Steve Brine to go out with them as resurfacing work continued on the M3 motorway.

Last year, Ministers' responded to Mr Brine's long running campaign to bring a quieter surface to the road by confirming junctions 9-14 of the M3 will be resurfaced in the financial years 2015/16 and 2016/17. However, just before Christmas, it was announced the work would be accelerated with completion due by April 2015.

Steve says; "It was so great when this campaign bore fruit late last year but I simply had to see it for myself to believe it was true so when the team invited me to join them overnight I jumped at the chance. This work is dirty, complex, highly skilled – and carried out while most of us are fast asleep. It was very strange to be standing on the carriageway of the M3 in the early hours of the morning but so good to actually see that worn down, noisy old surface taken away and a new quieter one put in its place."

NEW NURSERY OPEN FOR BUSINESS

Winchester city centre has a new nursery, with the opening of the Yellow Dot nursery on Wales Street.

The nursery, which has opened at the site of the old Ship Inn, is the eleventh location for the popular organisation, and Steve Brine was on-hand to cut the ribbon.

Steve, who also opened their Otterbourne nursery back in 2012, told The Winchester Post; "We all remember this building when it was the Ship Inn but that had really fallen out of use and it's fantastic to see it reborn as such a valued community asset. This area of Winchester is changing so I am already working with my colleague Cllr Fiona Mather around issues to do with the safety of young children and mums crossing the road here."

RAILWAY IMPROVEMENTS

Local MP Steve Brine has welcomed a 'major step forward' for late night safety at the city's railway station after it was announced the platforms will now be staffed until 11pm.

The MP held a packed public meeting, ASKSWT, back in November 2013 which gave rail users the chance to put questions directly to South West Trains boss Tim Shoveller. Among the issues raised were the lack of on-train wi-fi, capacity in the car park and late night safety.

Steve says; "We've made progress on many of the areas

More: www.stevebrine.com/trains needing attention with wi-fi finally coming online last year, a new decked car park and footbridge installed and vastly improved cycling facilities. Late night staffing however remained a key concern as passengers arriving back into the station late at night, especially women, said they felt vulnerable and wanted to see a much later staffing presence.

"It's really pleasing SWT have made what is a major step forward. I know my constituents, many who pay a great deal to use the trains, will be pleased to hear it and feel greatly reassured.
